JOIN AFCI

Recognizing the global production community has a diverse makeup, the AFCI offers multiple ways to join the organization. These different categories are designed to accommodate diverse sectors of the industry and service their professional expectations. If you're unsure which category applies to you, please contact us.

There are two AFCI Membership categories and three AFCI Affiliate categories.

1. Members are usually non-profit,

Government or Government-designated entities chartered to provide information and assistance to the film, television and media industry about working in their local territory at no cost to the client.

2. Affiliates are usually for-profit businesses/organizations that fall into one of two categories - those intrinsically operating in the industry, and those for which the film, television and media industry is but one aspect of their business. Those in the latter category may contact AFCI to make a case to become Preferred Industry Affiliates. All cases will be considered. We also offer an Education Affiliate category for Colleges, Universities and Film Schools.
